Invitation

Public lecture by

Allen Klaiber

Professor at The Ohio State University and Fulbright Professor for Environmental Economics of Urban Amenities at the University of Natural Resources and Life Sciences (BOKU)

Market signals, urban amenities and the environment

27th May 2019 at 16.00

Franz Schwachhöfer Haus, SR 09

Allen Klaiber is Fulbright Professor for „Environmental Economics of Urban Amenities“ at University of Natural Resources and Life Sciences in the summer term 2019 and Professor in the Department of Agricultural, Environmental and Development Economics at The Ohio State University. Prof Klaiber’s research focuses on urban, environmental and agricultural economics. He investigates the linkages between humans and their surroundings by analysing the choices individuals make. These choices in turn reveal the tradeoffs people are willing to make to alter and obtain urban amenities, environmental services, land use and other associated aspects of their surroundings. Prof Klaiber has published in top urban, environmental and agricultural economics journals and served in editorial capacities for the leading environmental and agricultural economics journals (AJAE, JEEM, JAERE). He is also director of graduate studies in his department at The Ohio State University.
