ADVISING MATTERS

University administrators, policy advisors and teaching staff from around Europe will gather for this one-day conference to explore the concept of academic advising through discussion, presentations and workshops, gaining new insights and food for thought on questions such as:

- What is academic advising?
- How does it benefit student success?
- How does advising relate to the mission of the university?
- How does it fit the roles and responsibilities of teaching staff and students?

The inspiring and hands-on CREATES toolkits for advising by teaching staff, peer advising and student self-reflection will be launched.

Come to Maastricht to learn, discuss and network with colleagues from universities across Europe and help students write the story of their education!

CREATES is an Erasmus+ Strategic Partnership executed in cooperation with the DAAD.
