

Intercultural Competence

An eLearning course for all BOKU students

In an international environment you need intercultural competences!

In this course you will deal with the concept of culture and get to know different cultural dimensions. You will learn to understand the meaning of ethnocentrism and outgroup bias and get clues on how to deal with intercultural differences in a professional way.

At the same time, you question your own values and imprints and consider how you can adapt your behavior and expectations. Intercultural interactions require openness, sensitivity, empathy, tolerance of ambiguity and communication skills

You will receive a course certificate after completing all chapters.

Estimated course duration: 120 minutes
